It would have been a non-event

Most people wouldn't bother to go around the corner to watch grown people put on silly costumes and make a bonfire. And that probably accounted for the fact that there weren't more people at the Ku Klux Klan "rally" on Rte. 5, in Rumford Pt., last Saturday. In fact, you could have counted the number of Klan sympathizers on your fingers. They were completely outnumbered by the media, the curious, and the angry.

The angry carried hand-made signs and hot words, telling the Klansmen their racial and religious hatred is not wanted in Maine. Other concerned citizens met in Rumford, Portland, Auburn and Kennebunkport to re-affirm the American ideal that this is a country where everyone is welcome, and everyone works together.

While it was a non-event, the Klan "rally" reminded many that there are those who would destroy the basis of America in the name of racial and religious "purity."

Recycling coming to Bethel

Thanks to the Adult Activity Center, in Rumford, Bethel residents will now have something better to do with their newspapers, magazines and other paper waste than bury them in the landfill.

As reported last week, the Board of Selectmen gave permission to the Adult Activity Center to construct a shed near the entrance of the landfill in which papers can be deposited and stored. The papers will be picked up by the clients of the Center and sold to an insulation company. They will earn some money, and the Bethel landfill will last many more months as papers will no longer account for much of the waste buried there.

The director of the Center told The Citizen the recycling shed should be functioning within a month. If you want to aid a worthy social agency, and if you want to help prolong the life of the town's landfill, you will use the recycling shed for all your paper waste—except corrugated paper. And tell your friends to do the same.

A note from the publisher

Little did I realize when I headed out to Sebasco Estates last week that I was going to an area that has more history than Plymouth Rock, in Massachusetts.

The peninsula that separates Casco Bay and the mouth of the Kennebec River is now known as Phippsburg, a spread-out town of slightly more than 1,000 inhabitants. In 1607, the population of the area was approximately 100 Englishmen, who came over on two ships in order to plant a colony there. (Of course there were Indians living in the area, but their numbers are not recorded.)

Here we are celebrating the 200th birthday of the American Constitution, but Maine's colonial heritage dates back another 180 years before 1787.

You'll recall that 1607 was the year of the first settlement in America, at Jamestown, Va. Plymouth Rock wasn't until 1621.

As my wife Mary and I toured around the peninsula, we couldn't understand why the state or the locality hasn't done more to publicize the fact the Sir George Popham and his brave followers chose Maine before Massachusetts. (Of course that's splitting hairs a bit, because Maine was a district of Massachusetts during colonial days.)

Not only is the historic occurrence unpublished, the site itself and the story surrounding the colony is kept almost a secret. After asking directions of a policeman in a cruiser, we parked where we thought he had indicated. There we found a sign directing us to Fort Baldwin, although the name of the Popham fort was Fort St. George.

Fort Baldwin, as we learned from a native—not from the sign—was built around 1907 and was manned during World War I and World War II, guarding the approaches of the Kennebec, where just upstream the Bath shipyard was turning out warships for the U.S. Navy.

This native directed us up a hill where we found a small monument to the Popham colony. Also, from him, we were shown the bluff where Fort St. George probably sat. There was no marker to attest to the fact, however.

The Popham colony lasted only a winter. Arriving in August, the colonists were surprised when the weather turned bitter cold. About half of them went back home in the fall. Most of the remainder—some, including Sir George Popham, died—made it through the winter and then called it quits in the spring.

It would be interesting to know how the colonists happened to pick such a strategic spot to set up shop. Aside from their fort and Fort Baldwin, there were any number of other forts built in the area to safeguard navigation up the Kennebec. The forts saw action in the War of 1812 when British warships attempted to attack Bath. A large fort—Fort Popham—built during the Civil War, still stands imposingly overlooking the river estuary.

Eighteen men from Phippsburg died in the Revolutionary War, and small cemeteries are scattered all over the peninsula. There are about 100 in all, and many are completely overgrown.

One has a wonderful sense of history while going from settlement to settlement. Unfortunately, unless you're familiar with the area, you will have a difficult time figuring out the history of the place.

And that's a shame, because it's part of our heritage that should be shared with as wide an audience as possible, not hidden away.

It was especially unfortunate to not provide some understanding of the historical significance of the area because the town was being visited last weekend by a couple hundred journalists from all over the state. You see Mary and I were in Sebasco for the annual convention of the Maine Press Association, as were publishers, editors reporters and spouses from Kittery to Houlton.

Hosting the Maine Press Association convention is a great opportunity for an area to make itself understood to the state's media. Next year, Bethel will be the host town, and I trust we'll do a better job of showing the visitors what our area is all about.

The convention will be held at The Bethel Inn, and the convention organizers will be in town in a month to begin working out the details. I was elected to the board of directors of the press association and will suggest that the local chamber of commerce be brought into the planning sessions. I would hope that the chamber can organize tours of the local forest industry and the local ski industry, as well as tours of Bethel's historic district. I would hope that when the assembled journalists leave Bethel after next year's convention, they will have a good understanding of the area, which they will be able to impart to their readers.

I'm sorry I can't tell you much more about Phippsburg. It is awfully pretty, and Popham Beach is broad and beautiful. Mary and I ran into Lynda Chandler and her mother, Dorothea Hiltz, strolling on the beach, enjoying a coastal weekend.

I'm also sorry I can't report what awards The Citizen won in the Better Newspaper Contest—part of the convention. For the first time since we began entering the contest three years ago, the paper didn't win any awards. I hope this doesn't mean we didn't do our job properly this past year. If it does, I suspect we'll get letters from readers telling us as much.

In truth, it is nice to win awards from members of the profession. But what the

REPORTERS, CAMERAMEN, PHOTOGRAPHERS, PROTESTORS, uniformed and plainclothes law enforcement officials, as well as merely curious local residents all gathered at the gate of Gerald Cote's farm on Rte. 5, in Rumford Point last Saturday—greatly outnumbering the few out-of-state Ku Klux Klan members and supporters who were exercising their Constitutional rights of free assembly and free speech. Aside from the predictable posturing on both sides, there was little threat of actual violence, and even less evidence of any coherent dialogue.

professionals are looking for is not always what our readers want. For example, some of the advice handed out by the big city journalists was not to have ribbon-cutting photos in the paper, and not to have award presentations in the paper, and not to have ads on page 1. We could make these changes, but I think the majority of our readers would not like them.

So we'll continue to listen to advice from all sides, but the advice we value most is the views of our readers. That's an invitation to drop a line, or a brick, or a bouquet, whenever you feel so moved.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The below letter was sent to all SAD #17 board members and signed by 200 teachers (in SAD #17) to express their feelings about negotiations.

Oxford Hills Teachers Association

Dear Board Members:

We would like to take this opportunity to express our concern, confusion, and dismay about this year's teacher contract negotiations.

First, our concern is that you may feel or have been informed, that the teachers' association negotiating team, specifically, and the association, in general, do not reflect the views of the majority of teachers in this district. On the contrary, the association, which is recognized by both the Maine Labor Relations Board and the SAD #17 Board of Directors, not only represents the vast majority of teachers in this district in terms of membership but also reflects the views of the vast majority of all our teachers, members and non-members alike.

Second, our confusion about these negotiations centers on the primary issue in dispute—the salary schedule. Although the association's proposal included a 5 percent index, the OHTA negotiating team indicated from the outset its willingness to consider any better salary structure the board might present. In response to this offer, the board's team withdrew its alternate pay plan from the table and presented instead two structures which were designed "on the spot." The salary increases in these plans were distributed arbitrarily and inequitably. The only justification the board has given us for these proposals is that it does not want to pay teachers "for getting one year older" and that there are a few teachers in this district who do not deserve a raise. This explanation is confusing since under the board's proposal teachers will still be paid "for getting a year older"—except in one instance—but they will not be paid for it at the same rate. In addition, the arbitrary nature of the salary schedule not only fails to insure that "undeserving" teachers—if there are any—will not receive a raise, it also prevents some deserving teachers from receiving one.

The money to fund the salary schedule proposed by the association has already been budgeted by the board and approved by the voters of the district. The present schedule is both equitable and sensible. Why replace it with something that is neither?

Finally, we are dismayed by the reluctance of the board and superintendent to reward the efforts of teachers in this district in contrast to their willingness to praise this district's educational achievements to the public. As the superintendent stated in the opening paragraph of his welcoming letter to the staff this year, "Last year was a very successful year for this school district."

The drama club placed first in regional competition, the music and math programs continued their dominance in the state, and the debate team is the state champion for the second year in a row. The high school Odyssey of the Mind team placed fifth in the nation and the junior high OM team placed first. Last month we were informed by the Maine

Cohen criticizes proposed home energy assistance cuts for Maine

Senator Bill Cohen has expressed his "deep disappointment" with the Senate subcommittee decision to make a cut of over 30 percent in the funds allocated to Maine households under the government's Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP).

The LIHEAP program is aimed at helping the poor, particularly the elderly, to pay for the costs of heating their homes. In 1987, Maine received $24.7 million under this program, enabling it to assist almost 60,000 households with the payment of energy bills.

In a letter to Senator John Stennis (D-Miss.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Cohen joined several of his colleagues in expressing his concern over the funding reduction for LIHEAP and urging its restoration to current levels.

"Many members of low income households are now finding it impossible to meet the basic needs of existence—food, housing, and health care," Cohen said. "To slash the already inadequate assistance they may get for their utility expense would be a severe blow."

Cohen noted the impact the funding reduction will have on Maine residents, pointing out that 19,000 fewer households will receive assistance and that "they will have to face the bitter cold winter without help."

"This program is crucial to Maine's poor and elderly who are faced with ever-increasing energy bills," Cohen said. "I will do all I can to see that this decision is reversed. It is important that as many Maine residents as possible obtain the assistance they need." With energy prices rising 20 percent over the past five years, he added, "the LIHEAP program becomes more essential every year for those in need."

The full Senate Appropriations Committee is expected to meet to review this issue this week.

ALBANY CHURCH MEETING

The annual meeting of the Albany Congregational Church will be held at the church on Tuesday, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m.

Educational Assessment that our high school juniors scored 50 points above the state average in math, 60 points above the state average in writing, and 70 points above the state average in reading. Dr. [Kenneth] Smith has credited SAD #17 teachers with educational successes like these. In a recent article published by the Oxford Hills Chamber of Commerce he explains, "Our kids are average but we produce above average students. The ability of our teachers and their dedication to their work and their classes makes the difference."

These achievements are not the results of a few teachers; they clearly and unmistakably reflect a district-wide effort. It is time to acknowledge the ability and dedication of the teachers in this district by negotiating a fair and equitable contract.

New child safety belt law now in effect

The effective date of Maine's new child safety belt law was Tuesday, Sept. 29. It raises the age at which children must be secured in an auto safety belt or child auto safety seat any time they are passengers in a motor vehicle in Maine.

Albert L. Godfrey, Sr., Co-Chairman of the Maine Safety Commission, is confident that people of all ages will benefit from the law. "Now parents of all children up to 13 must be sure that these children are properly secured when they're riding," he said, "and educational effects are due to impact not only that group but thousands of others as well in regard to safety belt effectiveness."

"During the first six months police will be issuing only warning when the law is broken. After that a violation may result in a fine of $25-$50," Godfrey observed. "And I'm delighted to report that Commissioner John Atwood of the Maine Department of Public Safety has assured me that enforcement of the new law will be emphasized."

MSAD #44

Superintendent's Newsletter

Dewaine B. Craig

A year ago the Board of Directors of SAD #44 approved Policy B, Article #21, the Student Attendance Policy. This was an attempt to improve daily school attendance, which in turn will improve the student's regular classroom work and their final grade-course credit. Improving a student's daily attendance habits also teaches a student important attitude.

Whenever an administrative body attempts to provide regulations affecting people, it is impossible to provide an effective policy without trial and error. Last year was the proverbial year of trial and error. In retrospect, the policy was and is founded on solid educational principle. The enrollment last summer in Telstar's Summer School dropped. This was related to the improved attendance on students in their daily classes.

The Student Attendance Policy worked quite well with approximately 97 percent of the students it dealt with. The remaining three percent of the attendance conflicts allowed the administration, board of directors, and a few students and parents an opportunity to find problem or conflict areas and also allowed an opportunity for the policy to be "fine tuned" for the future.

The Student Attendance Policy is still in effect in all SAD #44 schools this year. The policy has been slightly revised in an attempt to fine tune procedures.

For your review and information, the revised SAD #44 Policy B, Article #21, Student Attendance Policy, is printed below. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact any SAD #44 administrator.

Student Attendance Policy

The Board of Directors of SAD #44 requires regular attendance at all classes and charges the administrative staff of the district with enforcement of this regulation in accordance with state law (Chapter 211, Title 20A MRSA).

Attendance Rules

1. At the Middle School/High School level (Telstar), when a student has accumulated more than five (5) absences in a quarter course, more than ten (10) absences in the semester course, or more than twenty (20) absences in a year course, that student may not receive credit for the course.

At the elementary school level, when a student has accumulated more than twenty (20) absences in a school year, that student may not receive credit for that year.

2. Absences which include the right for make-up are:

- A. Personal illness.
- B. Professional appointments that cannot be made outside of the regular school day.
- C. Observance of recognized religious holidays when the observance is required during the school day.
- D. Emergency family situations.
- E. A personal or educational absence submitted in writing to the principal and for which approval has been granted in advance of the absence.

All absences will be applied toward the attendance policy.

3. If a student arrives late to school or leaves with an early dismissal, the absence may apply to the attendance requirements.

4. Students who are excused from class at attend school sponsored activities or are unable to attend school due to school district transportation problems, will not have the absence applied to the attendance policy.

5. When a student accumulates half the absences described in #1 above, the officials and area residents, CMP is now recommending the actual 200 foot wide right of way needed for the transmission line," said Donald F. Kelly, CMP vice president for power supply.

Representatives from Charles T. Main, Inc., environmental and engineering consultants hired by CMP to assist in the licensing of the transmission line, and CMP have been gathering information since April of this year. The siting of this right-of-way is a direct result of the meetings and extensive environmental studies.

A preferred centerline has been identified from a proposed converter terminal site in the Bartlett Hill Road area of Jay, proceeding westerly through the towns of Jay, Canton, Dixfield, Mexico, Carthage, Roxbury, Andover, Andover North, Upton, Magalloway Plantation, Lincoln Plantation, Parkertown Township, and Lynchtown Township.

The remaining centerline identification through Farmachenee Township and Bowmantown Township is continuing and is expected to be finalized to the extent possible by late 1987 or early 1988. The Maine-Canada border crossing is undergoing continuing review and will be established after the assessment of crossing alternatives has been completed by both CMP and Hydro Quebec. (The accompanying map shows the centerline as selected with a possible border crossing currently under review in Maine.)

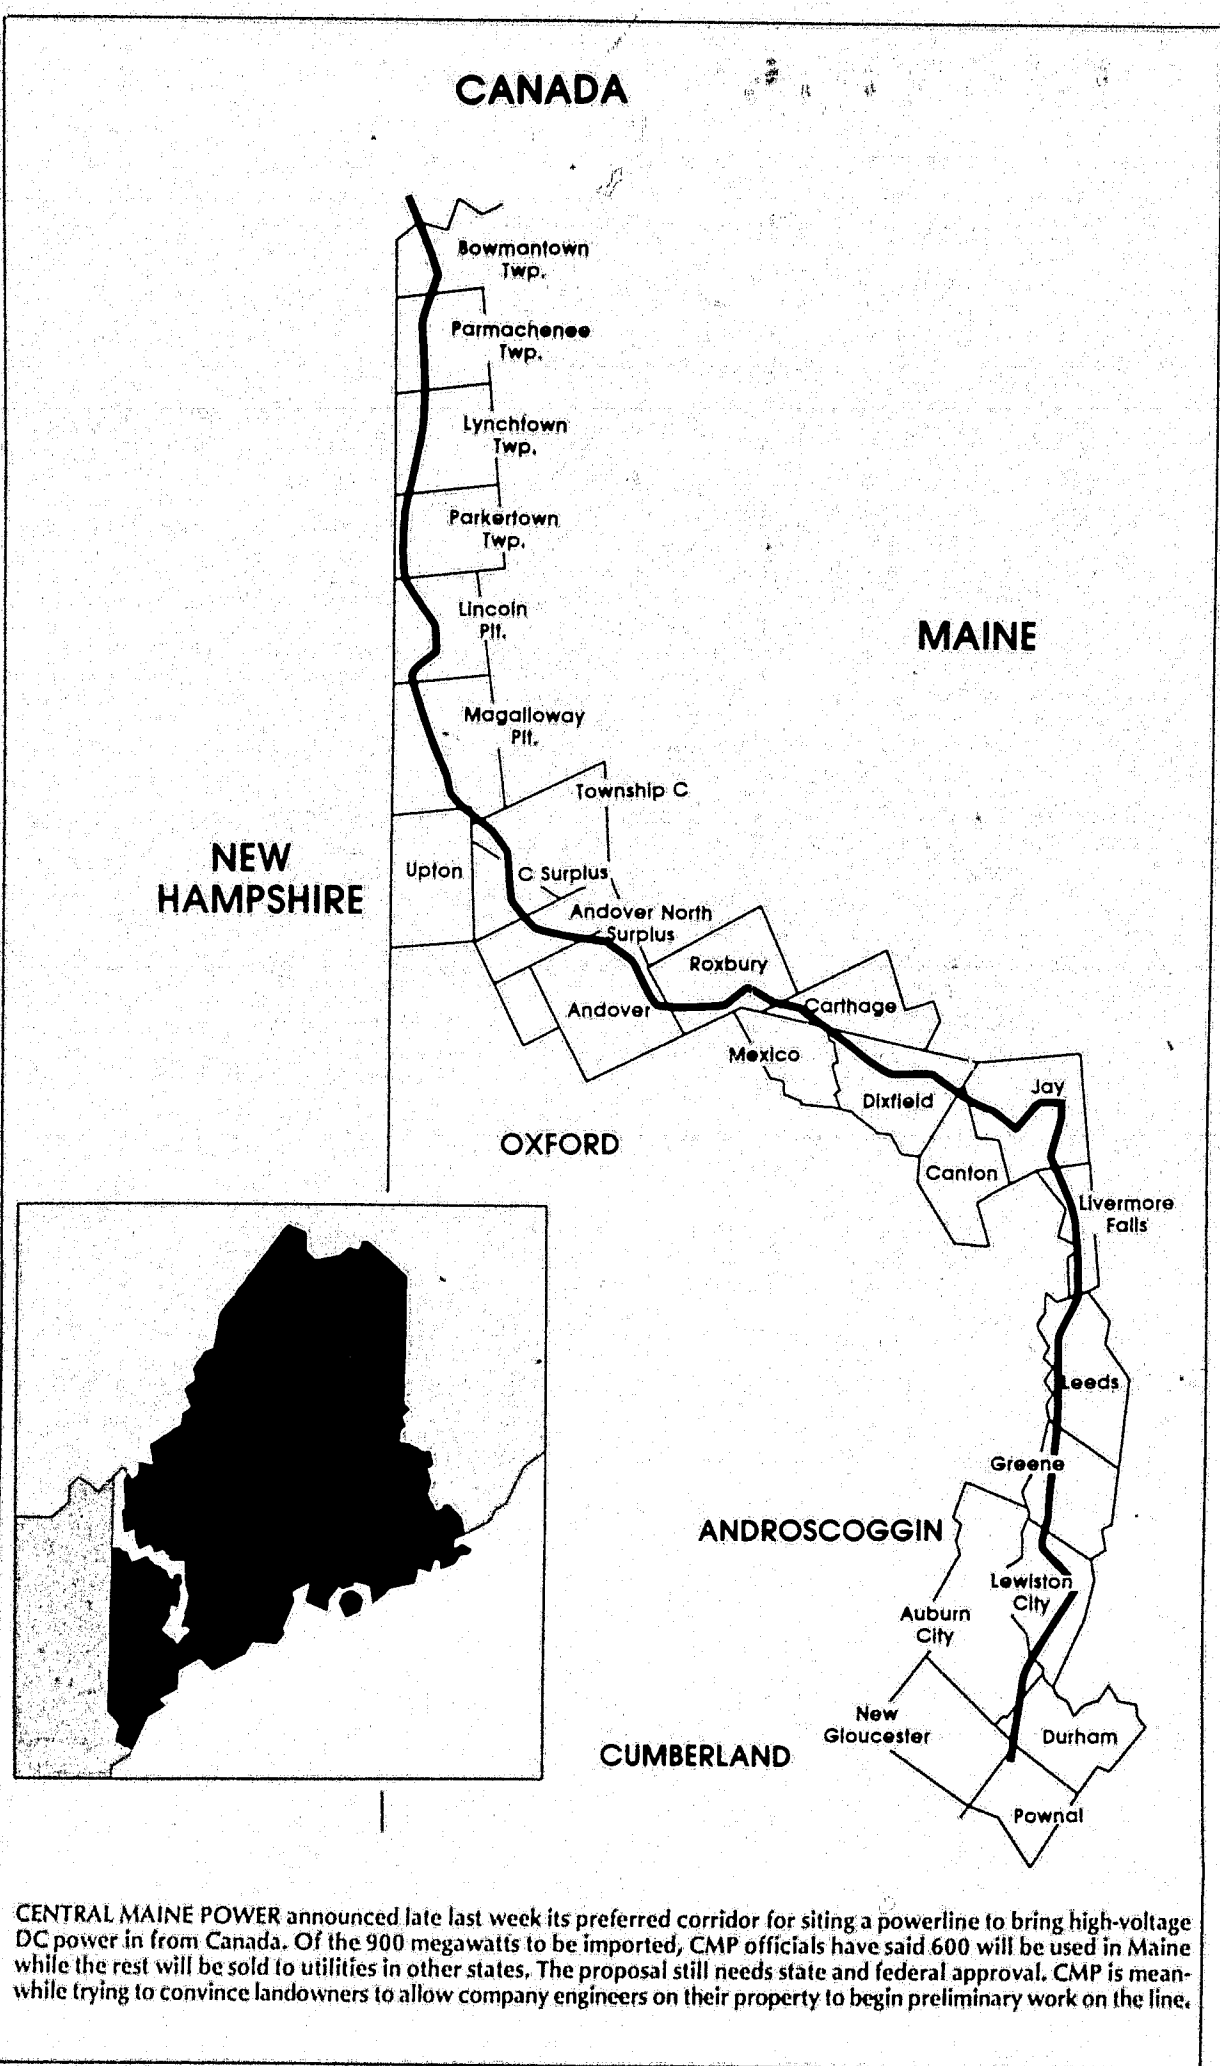

"CMP believes this proposal presents the best location for a transmission line based on environmental, recreational, visual, engineering and economic considerations," Mr. Kelly said. "To further confirm our belief, we are now asking landowners whose property may be crossed by the proposed power line for permission to enter their property and conduct the environmental studies necessary for the various licenses and permits required for the project."

"CMP appreciates their cooperation although approval by the landowners is voluntary," Mr. Kelly said. "CMP is not considering the purchase of land at this time; however, the company may be interested in doing so in the future."

Over the next two years, the Maine Legislature, the Maine Public Utilities Commission, Governor John McKernan and other state, federal and local planning and licensing bodies will review this proposal. "CMP will not proceed with this power purchase proposal from Hydro Quebec without these agencies' approvals," Mr. Kelly said.

parents will receive written notification and the principal or assistant principal may have a conference with the student. If a student accumulates three-quarters (3/4's) of the aforementioned absences, the parents and student may be requested to meet with the administration. If a student violates the attendance policy, the parents will be notified of any loss of credit.

Modification of a specific application of the above rules may be secured by instituting the appeals process existent in SAD #44.

CENTRAL MAINE POWER announced late last week its preferred corridor for siting a powerline to bring high-voltage DC power in from Canada. Of the 900 megawatts to be imported, CMP officials have said 600 will be used in Maine while the rest will be sold to utilities in other states. The proposal still needs state and federal approval. CMP is meanwhile trying to convince landowners to allow company engineers on their property to begin preliminary work on the line.

Prejudice is never easy unless it can pass itself off for reason. —Hazlitt

Andover East to feature Nicaragua

By MARJORIE JODREY

The Telstar varsity soccer team went down to defeat on Saturday by Lisbon. Their first defeat in five games, better luck next week.

Many from town were in Berlin and Gorham, N.H., on Sunday shopping. It was a great way to spend a rainy day.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Vannah have moved into Elderwood Manor this past week.

Mrs. Mary Jaros of Rumford visited her son, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaros, and family a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Thurston of Arundel were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Thurston and sons.

Mrs. Faye Milligan of Rumford called on her sister, Mrs. Mary Thurston, on Sunday.

Mrs. Roderick Sidelinger received word that her uncle, Henry Manger, of Albuquerque, N.M., died on Sept. 20. The Manger family were former Andover residents. He leaves his wife and children in New Mexico and several sisters and brothers in Maine also nieces and nephews.

The students at Andover Elementary School, grades K-6, will again be participating in a walk-a-thon to raise money for special events to benefit the school and community. ## North Paris By EVELINE B. VATCHER

We all enjoyed the rain on the weekend of Sept. 19-20. We could use a lot more before snow falls around us as so many wells are dry.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher attended the Anderson reunion at Bearbrook State Park, Allentown, N.H., on Sept. 19. The rain held off until we were well on the way home. There wasn't any ball game this year as several players were unable to come.

The North Paris Community Club was presented a gift of a piece of land for a parking lot directly across from the hall. It was the land where Mrs. Wilma Pierce and her late husband, Floreston S. Pierce, lived for many years. It was presented by H. Warren Abbott and accepted by the Community Club president, Joseph Vatcher. It may be too late this fall to do any work as the bulldozer man has much work to complete before winter sets in. The members are very grateful to Warren for this gift and it will save parking on both sides of the street.

Joseph Kalinowski has returned to Big Rock Farm after a short visit in Portland, Conn.

The Community Hall roof on one side is being shingled by Joe Vatcher. He has a capable 16 year old boy to help carry the shingles up the ladder for one hour after the school bus comes. He is Mark Jerris who recently moved to the Trask Road from Massachusetts. He goes to Ledgewick Memorial Home at 4 p.m. where he works in the kitchen and helps wherever he can. He and his family love it here in the country.

A mother bear and two cubs have been visiting the surrounding gardens at Joe Vatcher's. Mama pulled up asparagus plants and ate the roots and also ate potatoes and beets but didn't touch the toatoes.

The new house being built by Timmie Poland on the former Lillian Robbins' lot is going ahead very fast.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brett have finally moved a trailer to their lot in Tuell Town. It has been eight months since their other trailer has burned.

Arnold Coffin is a surgical patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital and he also has pneumonia. He hopes to be home soon.

Callers at the Laurences have been: Richard Felt, Joe Vatcher, Robert Anderson Jr., Carroll Record, Joe Kalinowski, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reidy, Tyngsboro, Mass., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Mike Spencer and family and attended the monthly supper.

Telstar 6, Lisbon 0 in field hockey action

Telstar "ruled the roost" last Friday with a 6-0 victorious count over Lisbon High School for their fifth win of the season. The Rebels only losses have come against Dirigo and Leavitt. Ellen Hastings began the scoring at four minutes into the game with an assist from Sheri Dooen. At the 20 minute mark Christine Hunt converted from Vanessa Cooper. The four minutes later Sheri Dooen added one unassisted to bring the score to 3-0 at halftime. In the second period, Hastings scored at three minutes unassisted and hunt with an assist from Shannan Tyler at the 10 minute mark to open the margin further in the second half. Hastings connected at 13 minutes for the final tally.

Telstar outshot rival Lisbon 18-7 and had a 17-7 advantage in the penalty corners. Mindy Robinson goalied the shut-out with seven saves.

Telstar defeats Rumford 2-1 in field hockey

Telstar Regional High School's varsity field hockey team defeated Rumford 2-1 on Monday. The game was scoreless until three minutes were left in the first period when Sheri Dooen pulled through with an assist from Vanessa Cooper. Then three minutes into the second period Rumford scored to tie the contest, but took the Rebels only five minutes to pull ahead with a score by Ellen Hastings from another assist by Cooper. The Rebels then played a tight defensive game to hold the win. Goalie Mindy Robinson had an excellent game with nine saves. Shots on goal were even, with 10 apiece.

Telstar's record now stands at 6-2. The Rebel squad entertains Livermore this Wednesday afternoon in a 3:30 encounter.

By VIVA WHITMAN

One of these nice cloudy days again. Had so much sunshine throughout the summer it makes it dreary to have it cloudy but we need more rain to fill the wells before winter sets in. The colors in the leaves are showing a great deal in places, now, and it is so pretty. Some of the maples are real colorful and it is a pleasure to see them as one rides along the road, no matter where you are going.

Russell has been bringing in squash for us to freeze and it is a job to peel it, cook it and then put it into containers for the freezer. But what good meals it helps to make for the winter months. As I have said before, our garden has produced a lot this year and we don't intend to waste any more than is absolutely necessary. I put up more pickles the other day and the rest of the cukes won't get used unless someone wants them. Any takers? We gave three bushel to Laura to take to a lady in Andover the other day but there are still lots left. Never saw cucumbers do any better than they have this year.

Hadn't been feeling too good when I wrote last week but felt better on Friday and went to town with Peggy and Russell and had a treatment on my back, which helped. Russell had treatments also to help him and we got the weekly groceries. I got extravagant and bought a Mega-Bucks ticket and glory be, I got a free ticket this week. First time it has happened for me so feel lucky.

We were expecting Peggy's granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Romano of Florida for dinner or supper as we country folks call it, so was busy getting good things for them to eat. They don't get the nice fresh vegetables from the garden like we have so they enjoyed the meal a great deal. We could tell by the way they ate and enjoyed themselves while eating. It is fun to get meals like that for someone and see them really enjoy it.

Did a little cooking on Saturday as the cookie jar was getting empty and put up more squash so have quite a few packages in the freezer already and lots more to go. Peggy went with Justine and Fred, her granddaughter and husband, for the day. They went to Freeport to L.L. Bean's and to Boothbay Harbor and I don't know where else but they got the lobster feed they were craving so badly.

I got word in the late afternoon that Toby Whitman had gotten hurt in the calf scramble at the fair so called to find out how bad. They didn't think it was very bad that night but had taken him to the hospital to have his arm x-rayed as it was swelling and seemed to be having trouble moving his fingers some. That was all I heard till the next day when I called and they didn't think it was too bad but had called him back to the hospital.

for more x-rays or something. I found out on Monday that he had broken his elbow but it wasn't bad enough to put it in a cast as long as he was careful. Hope it heals well for him as he has a long life ahead of him.

Sunday was a busy day here as we were having some of the family in to meet Justine and Fred and having a pollock buffet lunch. There was certainly enough for all to have to eat as usual. This family never has a get-together without lots of food around. Myrna and Bernard White of Auburn came, Laura Hutchins of East Andover, Loretta, Em, and Jim Merrill of West Bethel, Wynona, Michael, Courtney, and Kariann of Lewiston, Barbara and Bryce Yates of Sunday River, Bethel, Lorna Carter came with her mother Myrna, Fred and Justine Romano and Peggy, Russell and myself. I think I have named them all but Lawrence who came for lunch. Asked Grace but she had a sister visiting and so didn't come down even though invited them both. It was a good time had by all even if the rain did keep coming down and we had to be inside.

Monday was my day for going to see my doctor and getting a treatment. Russell picked tomatoes that were nearly ripe and brought in at least a pail full and a half of another. I think I will try making some tomato soup to can up and have to use this winter. Got tomatoes from last year and by the looks there will be more to put up this year. They are so large and so meaty and delicious. Can't get any to compare in the restaurants were you to eat there.

Have been doing a little sewing in be-between other things and knitting, also. Decided on Tuesday that I would make a batch of pickles and call it enough for this year so got the cukes in and started peeling them. Peggy came down and helped cut them up as I peeled and took out the seeds.

I had only wanted a small batch but Russell brought enough for a double batch so put up 24 pints of sweet cucumber pickles before the day was over. I have to admit they tasted good.

Laura had to come to Norway to see a doctor so stopped in and got cukes for the lady in Andover to make pickles. Also was given some cauliflower and they were pretty heads.

Yesterday, Wednesday, I had an appointment in Portland at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital to be evaluated to see if I could get in on a pain program. We left early as we intended stopping at our aunt's in Gray but didn't find her at home. I had taken her down three african violets as she loves them as I do. We went on to the Maine Mall and then to the hospital after lunch where I was examined and asked questions by a very nice doctor. He sounded hopeful so I am in hopes of getting into the program to help learn to cope with the intense pain I have. The brochures tell of all they are doing there and it is wonderful the programs they have to help deal with so many things. It is a fairly new establishment in Portland and will help many people in the future. It is so good to know that they are always working to try to make things better for folks of possible. Got to go get busy as I have tomatoes on cooking to make soup for canning. I hope everyone enjoys the lovely colors that autumn brings and will have a grand week.

Literacy Awareness Month observed

The month of October has been declared Literacy Awareness Month for SAD #44 by the local Literacy Task Force, which will sponsor a number of special events and activities throughout the month.

The Literacy Task Force is a subcommittee of the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education Advisory Council and has been meeting regularly since early summer. Members of the Task Force are Mary Isham, Don Sandstrom, Sylvia Wright, Nan Timberlake, Bob Anderson, Merrill Bittner, Cathy Newell, and Shirley Hodsdon.

In conjunction with Literacy Awareness Month, local libraries in Bethel and Andover have joined together to promote reading and library use. Task Force member Shirley Hodsdon, Betsy Raymond, of the Bethel Library, and Carol Littlehale, of the Andover Library, have an exciting month of events planned, including a recognition ceremony, complete with helium balloons, for school children who completed the summer reading programs at the libraries.

On Oct. 2, a bookmark contest will be announced for students in all grades, and elementary school classes will schedule visits to the libraries. Special displays featuring children's books will be planned and contest winners will be announced.

The Bethel Library has secured a special loan collection of books for young teens, an age group where use of the library has traditionally tapered off.

A Literacy in the Workplace Business Breakfast is in the planning stages to be held late in October, in coordination with the national Project Literacy US effort. SAD #44 will receive a special videotaped excerpt from a documentary on workplace literacy to use at the breakfast.

Don Sandstrom has designed placemats and posters for literacy awareness and adult student recruitment. They are being printed by Telstar Graphic Arts, and will be distributed to local restaurants and to school students at hot lunch later in the month. The design uses a rebus puzzle, under the slogan "Reading: As Basic as Bread and Butter", and is targeted both at the potential reading student who will receive the message regarding literacy services through the picture-writing, and at the reading public, who may find that the challenge of figuring out the message is similar to the daily problems encountered by the illiterate adult.

Several members of the Literacy Task Force will be taking the Tutor Training class in West Paris during October and will be available at the end of the month to assist individual adult students, or to work in the Adult Learning Centers, or at Telstar Middle and High School as tutors. Nan Timberlake of the Task Force is working on the use of tutors in ## the schools.

Task Force members Cathy Newell, Merrill Bittner, Mary Isham, Shirley Hodsdon, and Don Sandstrom, plus Mary Andrews of North Waterford and Larinda Meade of the Department of Educational and Cultural Services participated in Improvisational Theater Training under the direction of Marli Stevens of the Somerset County Basic Skills Program on Saturday, Sept. 19, at Telstar.

Following additional training, and much practice, the Bread and Butter Team will be available to present short skits regarding literacy to school and community groups. They are seeking additional members for the Improvisational Theater team. This effort is based on the highly successful Tri-State team which promotes awareness of literacy through improvisational theater. Training for local teams is funded by a Gannett Foundation grant awarded to the Department of Educational and Cultural Services.

The next meeting of the Literacy Task Force will be in late October, following the completion of the tutor training. Anyone interested in participating in any activities of group may contact the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780.

GEDs gain in popularity

The American Council on Education recently released information on the number of people taking the GED tests during 1986. According to Douglas R. Whitney, director of the Council's GED Testing Service, "The GED Testing program continues to offer a substantial number of people the opportunity to qualify for a high school equivalency credential."

During 1986, 739,683 people—slightly up from 1985— took the GED tests in the U.S. and Canada. As a result of testing conducted at over 3,200 testing locations, 489,629 examinees earned scores that qualified them for an equivalency credential.

Approximately 73 percent of the examinees who completed the test battery in 1986 scored well enough to pass the GED.

According to Cathy Newell, Director of Adult and Community Education in SAD #44, 11 people took the GED tests in SAD #44 during 1986. All 11 passed the test. Mrs. Newell attributes the high rate of passing to the extensive use of the Practice Tests in the local program, and the opportunities for people intending to take the GED to participate in preparation programs.

During 1986, 705,918 people, including 11,610 active duty military personnel, took the English edition of the GED battery; 31,195 took the Spanish edition; and 1,910 took the tests in French. Approximately 600 people used a special edition of the tests, either audiotape, braille, or large print. The average age of the examinees was 26.5 years, and more than half indicated that they were planning to continue their education or training beyond high school.

Since 1971, the GED testing program has enabled more than six million adults to obtain a high school credential. These credentials continue to be accepted by more than 90 percent of the colleges and universities, and by most employers to satisfy requirements for a secondary education credential. Annual diploma in the United States issued based on results from the GED tests.

The GED tests have been revised, and Maine will begin using the new tests in January. The new tests will have a greater emphasis on writing and critical thinking skills, and SAD #44, as well as many local adult education programs have been revising their preparation process to reflect the new requirements. Pat Morey and Merrill Bittner have attended special training relating to the new writing skills requirements, and Morey will conduct a Writing Clinic as part of the Adult Learning Center at Telstar.

Anyone interested in information about the GED testing process should contact Cathy Newell or Merrill Bittner at SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, 824-2780. GED Practice testing and preparation is available during the day, on Tuesday mornings at the Bethel

Students celebrate completion of summer reading program

The students all read 10 books, two each from the following categories: Historical Fiction, Biography, Reading Rainbow Books, Nature Stories, and Fantasy/Fairy Tales. Helium balloons were let off, with names and addresses attached. It is hoped that many students will receive letters from the people who find their balloons.

The following is a list of the students who completed the reading program: Annaliese Bass, Gabriel Perkins, Jason Fraser, Amy Hale, Leah Bonema, Alex Gillies, Darrah Howard, Matthew Lewis, Karen Wheeler, Becca Fraser, Kellie Paradis, Kate Nickerson, Katie Chapman, Hana Seames, Melinda Hale, Bret Harvey, Julie Ludlam, Brooke Cramton, Grayson Wakefield, Marcy LaVallee, Amanda Sysko, Jodi Barnes, Jessie Wright, Teri Chadbourne, Clinton Wakefield, Cindy Wheeler.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is an interesting passage by an 19th century author—

"The beauty of the scene cannot be conveyed in language. The one side of the valley was blue with evening shadow, through which loomed forest and precipitous hills and mountain tops, and the other side was still bathed with the sunset glow. It would have been a more delightful and exhilarating contemplation."

Officers filled so far by the Society are: President, Robert Billings; Vice-President, Karen Paul; Secretary, Louisa Neves; and Treasurer, Anne Crockett. Ray Burnham is the new Trustee.

Tracks for traction.

To get through heavy snow, you need good traction. There are four Honda snowblowers available. They are great performers in most any snow condition.

And for tougher conditions, the trail blazer Honda snowblowers can clear through even the heaviest snow. Honda snowblowers have discharge chutes which rotate 220 degrees - to throw snow at distance up to 100 feet.

Reliable. Dependable. And with the traction you need to get through heavy snow.

Fryeburg Fair opens for 137th season Sunday, Oct. 4

When Fryeburg Fair opens its gates for the 137th time on Oct. 4, visitors to the Blue Ribbon Classic will find a number of improvements and enhancements on the 170-acre grounds.

Nearly $250,000 has been spent over the summer preparing for the fall foliage spectacular that last year drew more than a quarter of a million people. This year's top project was the construction of a pair of four-lane on and off-ramps, a move authorized by trustees to consolidate the more than 500 acres that will be registered for the state's largest fair. The 120 by 80-foot barns will house all of the fair's open in one location for easier public viewing and eliminates the practice of tying animals to truck bumpers.

Trustees also had exhibition in mind when they gave the green light for the new 24-ft-tall race horse barn. The elegant 120-foot-long facility features handsome gridwork to allow spectators to study the sleek standardbreds before, during and after the fair's six full days of racing. The facility, completed in early September under the supervision of 15-year building superintendent Roy Andrews, was constructed alongside the old barn built in 1916 behind the paddock area.

An enhancement to last year's new computerized betting system is the construction of a new six-window betting complex in the infield. The new building located just behind the old judges' stand along the finish line will make quaffing, betting or betting an easy task during each afternoon's 10-race program. Incorporated into the complex are permanent men's and ladies' restrooms. A special feature of the flat-topped structure is its concrete roof which will be turned into an observation deck at some point.

Many of this year's improvements will go unnoticed by fairgoers, such as the new electrical services, camper hookups, and more than one mile of new water lines. But some of the larger changes like the clearing of 15 acres of pine forest this spring to make way for additional parking, will serve as a substantial backdrop to the hundreds of activities as visitors make their way around the spacious grounds.

Street signs have been added to the highways and byways of the fair in response to the state fair association's evaluation visit last year. Of the possible 300 points on the thorough evaluation, Fryeburg scored an impressive 299. The flower show that has proven to be an overwhelming success will be back for

MASON MAN IS GUEST ABOARD USS JOHN F. KENNEDY

James E. Everett Jr. of Mason was one of 363 guests aboard the USS John F. Kennedy when it left Portland harbor at 10 a.m. on Monday, Sept. 14, A.S. p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 16, the ship arrived at Norfolk, Va. During the interim period, Mr. Everett reports that he was treated royally aboard the 1,672-ton aircraft carrier where he was the guest of his son, Lt. Robert A. Everett.

During the cruise from Portland to Norfolk, the guests witnessed practice runs, a performance by the Navy's precision flying team, the "Blue Angels," and enjoyed a barbecue on the 4.56-acre flight deck.

Mr. Everett says it was one of the high points of his life, "an unforgettable experience."

its third consecutive year in Expo I. Described as "a breath of fresh air," the cut flower show and exhibition will feature one-hour demonstrations throughout the week with specialists offering the latest advice on floral arrangements, usually in a standing-room-only audience.

Two anniversaries will be celebrated this year, including the 30th anniversary of the Saco Valley Woodsman's Field Day, held Monday of fair week, and the 50th Baby Bed Sale, the oldest continuous sale in New England.

A 12-foot roof has been added over the equipment storage area between the farm museum and the annex and the blacksmith's shop now features a brick forge reminiscent of activities that took place a century ago.

Last year was a record week for Fryeburg as more than 250,000 people attended the eight-day event, which surpassed the $1 million mark for the first time.

This is your Chamber of Commerce

Each week, this column will spotlight a different member of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. The purpose is to give some understanding about the various fields of endeavor of the Chamber members.

Esther Crockett, the owner and manager of the Red Top Truck Stop, on Bridge Street, in Bethel, has 13 years experience in the food service business. She formerly worked as salad chef at The Bakers, in New Hampshire, and was owner and cook at The Spa Restaurant when she owned the Naunty Block. That restaurant is now the RFD #1. She also served as cook at the Head Start center.

The Red Top had been a full-service

Through all of its latest activities, the fair took in $1,000,314 in 1986 compared to $87,234 in 1985 and $87,961 in 1984.

The weather was superb with light rain falling only during the evening hours. Improvements during 1986 included the construction of a 38 by 240-foot east barn which replaced one of the two big tents used in recent years and major improvements to the main office by the Route 5 front gate. Most of the improvements were targeted for the police and security areas. Last year also saw the construction of a new portable stage and a 2,500 KVA substation to handle the power loads during fair week.

Two anniversaries will be celebrated this year, including the 30th anniversary of the Saco Valley Woodsman's Field Day, held Monday of fair week, and the 50th Baby Bed Sale, the oldest continuous sale in New England.
